MIROS/ TPTS COURSE

Once in decade or more arrives a revolutionary fracture management system, that is tangentially different from all established modalities of management.

Normally fractures are fixed with plates and screws, nails or external fixators Tangari Prakash Trauma System is a new philosophy of elastic fixation, which incorporates the advantages of both intra and extra medullary fixations and at the same time allows elastic micro motion in the beneficial axis of the fracture to allow for rapid rehabilitation and early fracture union. In addition, TPTS is a bloodless, stitches, minimally invasive surgical procedure. The system uses special wires, clamps and instrumentation and is suitable for a wide variety of fractures. The book explains the clamps, the bio mechanical principles, surgical techniques, and various montages to be deployed in different situations and is also profusely illustrated with numerous clinical examples.
